Nurturing Future Generations

Submitted by lbork on November 13, 2015

A woman holds her healthy baby during a visit to a local market in Mali. Feed the Future is helping nurture future generations through an integrated approach to agriculture and nutrition. One example is a holistic Feed the Future project in Mali that trains women at community health centers on improved resilient seeds as well as breastfeeding and weaning food recipes using healthy traditional ingredients. The Feed the Future initiative, along with partner ICRISAT, is helping empower women farmers and improve food security and nutrition in poor farming communities in Africa. Photo by Alina Paul-Bossuet
